New Commission appointed by TM Sterling Morris

PLANNING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

The formation of a Planning & Community Development Commission, for the Town of Wilmington was announced last night at the Selectmen's Meeting by Town Manager Sterling Morris.

The new commission is to take the place of the Economic Development Commission, which Morris had originally planned. It is being expanded in scope, and he is searching for a full time Systems Analyst, to work for the commission.

Among the tasks that will be given to the new commission will be an analysis of a number of factors which affect the living and business conditions of the town. One of those factors will be a study of water rates and sewer rates, it is understood.

John J. Biondo of Catherine Avenue, who was named to the Industrial Commission two weeks ago, heads the list of names for the Planning & Community Development Commission. Mr. Biondo is the president of Solid State Technology, of Upton Court. Four others have been named to the commission, Stanley Webber of 130 Church Street, retired, is a life long resident of Wilmington. Roy P. McClanahan, Building Inspector, and Anthony DeLuca, former teacher, now the administrator of the Work-Study program in the public schools, have been named to the committee. Both are well known to the residents of Wilmington.

The fifth man is a new name to the Town Hall, Frank Rosa of 28 Dell Drive. Mr. Rosa, a Northeastern graduate, is an employee of the Crivac Division of W.R. Grace & Co., in Woburn. He has been a resident of Wilmington since 1968.

MAPC Meeting in Lexington

Weston - Sudbury almost took over the Forum

Of the ten towns which took part in a forum in Lexington, Monday night, Wilmington had the largest representation. There were 15 town officials of Wilmington present, out of a total of 75 when the meeting opened at 8 p.m. But there were a few determined LWV types present from Wayland, Weston and Sudbury. They wanted to discuss the railroad crisis in those towns, and they almost took over the meeting.

The various officials were told by president John McCarthy of Wakefield of the effects of Regional Planning, and a seventeen minute slide projection carried the discussion further. Mr. McCarthy was speaking to an audience that knew of regional planning, as many of the officials had participated in the SILC (Subregion Intertown Liaison Committee) organization of 10 towns, including Wilmington.

Paul E. McBride, of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council staff, answered the questions about the railroad crisis, and in the answers said with some humor that there were 100 ways in which the deathblow had been given to the railroads of the U.S. McBride did not regard the possibly coming crisis of the Boston & Maine as being as important as that of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

When Town Manager Sterling Morris asked McBride if it was a policy "to halt construction of highways and bissections of towns" McBride said that the policy was to develop plans for

Mr. Murray has been appointed the interim Officer in Charge until such a time as the Postmaster position has been made in the Wilmington Post Office.

The intent of this story is to clarify any possible misunderstanding of the story in last week's Town Crier, which could have led to the assumption that Mr. Ritchie was demoted.

RICHARD BEAULIEU COMMENDED BY GENERAL MOTORS

Richard Beaulieu, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Beaulieu of Dadant Drive has recently been commended by General Motors for his design for a safety automobile bumper which he submitted to the firm.

The Shawsheen Tech sophomore was notified that his design project illustrated in a positive his talent and ability.

In a recent communication from General Motors, Richard was informed that the "rather complicated process of setting out the engineering specifications for a design, is frequently the most challenging and important part of the job...if you are interested in engineering, we wish you well and compliment you on your drawings", said G.P. Rumbold, GM's Assistant Director of New Devices.

Richard, although interested in chemistry and culinary arts, is primarily motivated in pursuing either mechanical or architectural drawing.

Chargers "B" E Mass Co-Champs

The Wilmington Chargers "B" eleven battled the Sudbury Warriors to a 6-6 overtime tie on Sunday afternoon to become co-champions of the Eastern Region of Pop Warner Football in Class B.

Coach Currier's boys jumped out to an early 6-0 lead scoring the first time they got their hands on the ball. Following a Warrior punt in the opening moments of the first quarter the Chargers took over at their own nine. Thirteen plays later quarterback Tom Bavotta plunged into the end zone from one yard out to cap the 89 yard td march. Robert Sferazza lugged the ball six times in the drive picking up 65 yards. A key play in the march was a 26 yard run by Sferazza around left end, from the Chargers 42 to the Warriors 42, with Rich Fiorillo throwing a key block at the Sudbury 45.

The rush for the two point conversion failed and at 6:30 of the opening stanza Wilmington led 6-0. Each team battled up and down the field until the Chargers committed a costly error late in the second period to give the visitors a break. Fiorillo fumbled at his own 48 at the 5:51 mark of the stanza and the Warriors Tobin Kent pounced on the loose piskin.

It took Coach Leedon's West Suburban Champs only four plays to knot the score. Rick Grant, the Warriors quarterback, completed four consecutive passes enroute to the tying touchdown. The final aerial was a ten yard toss to end Mark Rabuse for the td. An illegal procedure penalty nullified a successful two point pass completion and Sudbury failed to convert on their second attempt and the half ended some eighteen seconds later.

Neither squad was able to do much in the second half as the rain continued to come down. The teams entered the second period with the first score to decide the championship. A bad snap from center on a fourth down punting situation gave Sudbury excellent field position at the Chargers 35 early in the overtime, but the Wilmington defense, led by co-capt. Bob Kohler halted the Warriors drive at the 26.

Taking over at the 26 the Chargers moved down to the Sudbury 4 in ten plays, before giving the ball up. A big play in the drive was a 47 yard gallop by Dave Rounds, who would have scored except for a fine tackle by Sudbury's Andy Grossman at the Warriors 17. Sudbury took over at their 8 with only 1:17 left to play and Grant proceeded to move his ball club to the Chargers 30 on the strength of four pass completions before time ran out.

Some outstanding offensive performances in the title game include the running of Wilmington's Bob Sferazza (157 yards in 31 carries) and Dave Rounds (69 yards in 19 tries) and the passing of Sudbury's Rick Grant (15 of 39 aeriels for 155 yards).

Defensively many boys played well, but those who really distinguished themselves were the Chargers Jackie Nickerson, Tom Gillis, John Maga, Bob Kohler and Paul Jepson and the Warrior's Bob McMillan, Bob Fitzgerald, Paul Faxon and Andy Grossman.

Over-Improvements to Avoid
(1) Swimming pools either in the ground or above ground. You must plan on buying a pool simply for the enjoyment. You will never get your money back when you sell.
(2) Expensive siding jobs - You can spend $5,000 on a siding job. Your house will not sell for $5,000 more. Paint is cheaper and your house is more valuable painted than with some types of siding. Sometimes you can recover an investment in siding through lower maintenance costs.

Speaking of the weather, those fellas have the skidoos revved up and waiting and Ma better get her licks in this week or there'll be not much more work accomplished during the 33 inches of white stuff expected this winter!

Thanks to the Man with the Saw that fixed that front office door...Now, this Gal won't have to practice tackle for the football team every morning...as disappointing as it will be to those early morning spectators, who have been holding their breaths waiting her for to splat on that red plush carpet!

Don't forget that Jingle Bell Rock for St. Thomas on Saturday pm, Dec 4th...Snack table...there go those calories...and right after the big Thanksgiving turkey...Then, the buffet menu includes roast beef Missed those Big Horns on Friday Out of steam again?

Back at the Hut...The kids thought they were in the Snakepit this week-end with Ma on the business end of the whip...Lucky there's a Holiday once in a while...Then, the fellas decided they'd start with the renovation...so we have now a psychedelic bathroom, with junk all over the places we'd cleaned up...par for the course at 23...the story of our life!

Hey, if you get a chance...Stop in to the No. Intermediate and see those projects Bill Fay and his team have going...Wow...and that is something in curriculum development and really turning the kids on...and as for pushing Derek, there Bill...That'll be the day! All kidding aside, that looks and sound like a great innovation...Mebbe we should find them some land and build a real house!

Man...that was some storm last Thursday morning...Hope some sunshine is peering thru for ya by now....

Can't believe it, but the powers that be scheduled no meetings for the SC this week...and it's been 2 meetings and 2 or 3 etc for a few weeks now...Trying to beat the 1970 record, Walter?

May God Bless you and yours...wherever you are or they are this Thanksgiving Day...my heart is with you all...and if you're without a home...Dinner is on at 2:30...Come and join the Clan...and...then we'll see ya next week...Love ya!

Letters

Dear Mr. Neilson:

As a concerned citizen of this town and consumer of your product, I feel impelled to voice a complaint about your product. I have lived in Wilmington for the past sixteen years and have seen the town grow from a rural area into a now increasingly populated suburban community.

Along with the increase in population that Wilmington has been subject to in the last ten years, the problems of running the community have become increasingly complex. I feel that it is the responsibility of each citizen of the community to become aware of the increasing number of problems that exist in Wilmington. I also feel that it is your responsibility as editor and owner of the town paper, to give ample and sufficient reporting of these problems. This might take the form of letters to the editor or an editorial.

Your paper is the only journal of it's kind, that one can turn to the second page in order to reach the sports column; in this case page. Don't get me wrong, I feel there is an importance for such reporting of sports and various human interest stories. However, I feel that there is a more urgent need of reporting vital communal information that affects the life of each citizen of the community; more so than the size of a mushroom.

In pre-judging your response to this letter as being: There are other papers you could buy, or something to that effect, my answer would be that quantity is no substitute for quality.

Very truly yours,

Michael DiGregorio

How do you consume the Town Crier, with sauce, and perhaps a little garlic - or maybe some Town Crier mushrooms?

You are not the only person who is concerned. There are many things about which the Town Crier could talk, and act. There are also many reasons why it cannot.

First, if there were enough money, the Town Crier should publish a dozen or so pages a week. Then there might be room for the things you want and deserve.

To get that money there should be more advertising. That, it turns out, is difficult.

There is an out-of-town publication that takes about two thirds of the money out of town. It performs no civic services whatsoever, but in taking the money out of town, it prevents the Town Crier from doing more than it can in the editor's daily stint of 12 to 16 hours of work.

And, when your editor does his duty, and exposes some of those who should be exposed occasionally he is rewarded by having the chairman of the board concerned putting his advertising in an out of town publication too. That is known as punishing the Town Crier, and has happened more than once.

It is just impossible to do more, on the income of the Town Crier. If the people of Wilmington want a better paper - such persons as yourself - maybe something can be done.

But 16 hours daily is enough for any one man to work.

Dear Larz:

It is indeed high time that the headline "Town Manager Bristles", as displayed in the Nov. 18th issue of your paper read:

"Tax Payers Rise in Anger Demanding Home Rule", but no, we the people who elect these persons to represent us in this distinguished and esteemed (?) Legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts do not choose to get involved. Little thought are we giving to the problem of who is going to pay for these luxuries that are being consumed today and for which our children and their children will have to pay most dearly in their tomorrows!

How much involvement has the populace demonstrated, as individuals, protesting the actions of the Legislature in session during the eleven months and not completing the business of the year?

Making blanket rules governing all communities big and little without local approval - and it is not the first time that such action has been carried out - increasing salaries and expense allowances for members of the General Court by trickery and political maneuvering; legalizing lotteries, beano and other fanciful measures to tempt the unthinking to "get something for nothing". All these things done and many things not done, so that I cry out, "Who has heard the voices of these elected representatives in Town Offices, the State and Federal Government raised in protest appealing to the people, each individual taxpayer I mean, to make known that they are angered and do not intend to tolerate such centralized socialistic type of control.

Why allow the Town Manager to stand alone? Citizens, stand up and be counted!!

Ralph G. Babcock
P.S. Mr. Editor, where is your editorial on Home Rule vs. Bureaucratic control?

Journalism class in Wilmington High

HOLLY BRENNAN AND KATHY HYLAND: Are members of the Class in Journalism, and occasionally write a column which appears in the Town Crier.

Wilmington High School, this year, has a class in Journalism. Like Topsy, it happened.

A dozen or so youngsters decided to ask for a class in journalism, when making out their cards for the coming year. There was no collusive effort - more of a whim caused the youngsters to so write.

With a dozen young people wanting such a class it was provided. Miss Karen Hellmer, who had had some practical experience in Public Relations, was named the teacher. The class meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

THANKSGIVING DINNER: In the Old Age Housing, on Deming Way, was provided by the same group of ladies who provided one last year to the old folks. With them was the Rev. Robert Smith and Mrs. Smith of the First Baptist Church, and the Town Manager, Sterling Morris.

HENNY PENNY AND THE TURKEY SHOOT

This is Thanksgiving Week. In the Colonial Days there would be hunting in the woods, for a turkey with which to grace the family table. The Puritan forefathers would use their fowling pieces, perhaps to good advantage.

Their grandsons raised their own turkeys, and now the time has come to that place in history where all turkeys grow, it seems, in supermarkets. At least that's the place the modern pater-familia gets his turkey.

Seventy years ago, in Wilmington, there was another method of getting a turkey. A man could go to a Henny Penny Turkey Shoot.

Henny Penny was a man with a diffident attitude, and a voice to match. His name was Henry Wilson Sargent, and he wanted people to so call him, but everyone would cheerfully call him just Henny Penny, and he had to be satisfied with that.

There are hundreds of stories that can be told about Henny Penny. He lived his entire life in one home - that which is now the home of Attorney and Mrs. John Callan, at the corner of Woburn Street and Wildwood Street.

There is the story of Henny Penny and the Electric Street Car. There is the story of Henny Penny and the Steam Train - or how he went to Nashua, and why. There is the story of Henny Penny and his automobile. The writer knows many of them.

But this is the story of Henny Penny and his Turkey Shoot.

A Gobbler, when he eats, has a comical appearance. He picks up the corn with his bill, gets the corn into his mouth, and has a problem. He has to get that corn from his mouth to his stomach, and it isn't easy.

Sir Gobbler has to straighten up, point his beak at the sky, and then swallow. That's the process he uses. His beak is pointed at the sky for only a fraction of a second - and if Sir Gobbler doesn't do that he goes hungry.

It is the pointing of the beak to the sky that was the key to the success of Henny Penny and his Turkey Shoots.

Henny Penny had a log out in the field, behind the Benjamin Buck barn. Behind that log was a depression. The total distance of the height of the log and the depth of the depression was about equal to the height of a turkey's head, when its beak was pointed to the sky.

Henny Penny would tie down a turkey, behind that log, and in that depression he would scatter some corn. Then the shooters would be placed at a point about one hundred feet away.

A twenty-two rifle was used and the price was one cent a shot - paid in advance.

When Sir Gobbler had his beak full of corn, and had to lift up his head and point his beak to the sky - then, and only then was he exposed to the shooter, and then only his head. For a fleeting fraction of a second the target was in view, and the shooter could blaze away.

Only rarely did a turkey ever get shot. The writer cannot remember ever hearing of someone who was successful - but there probably were a few times, at least.

Anyway it was great fun. Even the turkey enjoyed it. He ate his corn with delight, and paid no attention to those angry sounding bees that were buzzing a foot or eighteen inches above his head.

And Henny Penny - well, he made some money, every Thanksgiving.

Henny Penny with his Model Yacht, which is another story. Picture taken in 1904, when he was about 30 years old.

HOME OWNERS CORNER

A rubber door wedge or door-stop can make a great addition to your tool kit.

If you are the type of handyman who likes to build things, you know how important the process of toenailing is.

It is very difficult to nail a piece of lumber at an angle, but a door stop can help! Just hold it in place against the back side of the piece being toenailed. It will keep the wood from sliding out of position while the nails are being driven in from the other side.

You'll save yourself time, trouble and annoying delays when you stop at Sweetie Home Courtesy Center, 615 Main St., 658-2051. We always maintain a complete supply of all types of lumber including the hardwoods plus over 150 display sheets of Weldwood, Georgia Pacific and Abitibi Paneling. You still have time to redo your playroom, livingroom or bedroom with beautiful paneling before the hectic Christmas Season.

Helpful Hint: Keep hammers dry and clean, and they will always be in good working condition.

One of the common failings, when giving first aid to someone who may have a fracture, is to move him.

Medical experts agree that the worst thing one can do in the case of a fracture, especially to an older person, is to attempt to transport the victim. Do not move the patient except when it is absolutely necessary.

Call a doctor, an ambulance, and/or someone qualified to splint the injured limb. Otherwise complications of all sorts may be the order of the day.

If the spine is injured, particularly avoid movement or changing position.

Better safe than sorry when administering assistance. Rely on Silver Lake Pharmacy, 52 Main St., for proper pharmaceutical service. Open 9-10 Every day. Tel. 658-4617.

SOLOMON MENTAL HEALTH CENTER SEEKS VOLUNTEERS

The Solomon Mental Health Center is offering a new program for the training of a limited number of community-minded citizens interested in becoming clinical volunteers.

The focus of this program is to help patients make a more satisfactory social and emotional adjustment in the community. Many patients are overwhelmingly lonely. They have no relatives or friends. A helping hand, a friendly interest from another human being in the community can, in many instances, restore trust and faith to one who feels utterly dejected and worthless.

Clinical volunteers will have an opportunity to work on a one-to-one basis with patients under professional guidance and supervision. They will also have an opportunity to learn about mental and emotional stresses through special lectures and seminars planned for clinical volunteers.

Anyone who has a genuine interest in working with the mentally and emotionally ill and is willing and able to make a commitment of a minimum of 4 hours weekly, please write or call Mrs. Celia Lyons, Solomon Mental Health Center, 391 Varum Avenue, Lowell, 454-8851, extension 26.

NAVY HAS REINSTATED
"ACTIVE DUTY AT HOME"

The Navy has reinstated its "Active Duty at Home" reserve program. Young men between the ages of 17 and 26 again have the opportunity to meet their military obligation right here in New England.

With only 4 months of active duty involved, a young man out of school with at least 11 years completed or a graduate can still apply for the Naval Air Reserves new "Modified" 4 month program.

A part of the 4 months active duty will be at a "boot camp" within the Naval Air Reserve Command's Eastern Section. The rest of the active duty will be spent at the Naval Air Station, South Weymouth or at its training detachment at Naval Air Station, Quonset Point, R.I.

He will then be assigned to a "drilling" unit and complete his obligation as a Naval Air Reservist one weekend a month.

Remember When.....

Mrs. George Buck started a school savings account around 1912. Since there was no bank in Wilmington, a Reading Bank was used and each Friday the children would bring their pennies. Many of these bank accounts were continued for many years.

Many years before Mr. Lowell the printer occupied the Bond house next to the new library, it was occupied by Mrs. McEnroe, beloved grandmother of the McMahon family.

Another printer who lived in town was little Herbert Fossett of North Wilmington. He would walk great distances from his home, always carrying a little black bag.

Graduating class roll for the year, 1912: College Preparatory Course, Herbert Brooks Eames, and Winifred Theresa McMahon; Commercial Course, Arthur Oliver Babine, Leo A. Huban, Miriam Melzar and Maude L. Millett.

The High School Principal at that time was Fred W. Carrier; Music Director, Mrs. Mabelle Proctor Counce.

One good story deserves Another

Recently the Town Crier published one of the pictures taken by the late Marion Holt - a picture of the old Boutwell Farmhouse. Also published were comments about Marion, and her career of photography in Wilmington.

As frequently happens when the Town Crier publishes something about the old days in Wilmington there was a re-action. Recently for instance a story was published about the Col. Joshua Harnden home. It brought a letter from a lady who lived in that home many years ago. Thus does the fund of information increase, and some of these days that lady's comments will be published.

Ralph Babcock of Woburn Street read the story about Marion Holt.

He had some pictures which the late May Swain had given him. He dug out those pictures and came to the Town Crier office.

Many, if not all of those pictures were taken by Marion, around the turn of the century. The oldest, apparently, is one shown here of the Congregational Church, taken (guess) about 1898 - 1900. It is a pleasure to have such friends as Mr. Babcock.

THE THANKSGIVING MOTIF: Students in the third grade of the Walker School had a real Pilgrim motif, last week, for their drawing lessons before Thanksgiving. Puritan costumes, loaned by Derek Little of the School Department, were modeled by some of the students, who then were subjects of pencil and crayon drawings by their classmates.

BARBARA GAGEL: The art teacher, found the work of Elizabeth McGinley to be worth a "Magnificent".

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH ABOUT 1900. It was painted brown in those days, and in front may be seen the elm trees which were planted by the Farmers and Mechanics Club on July 4, 1876.

The maple tree at left still exists, as do the Blanchard Pines, one of which may be seen beyond the maple. Those pines were badly scarred from the fire which burned the church during the Civil War.

Beyond the church, on the right, were the old carriage sheds, which extended all the way back, and in back of the building too. This was for the carriages and wagons, during church services. Notice, too, the gallery around the steeple, just below the town clock.
